Inside Your Congress

An American Iran

—by—

SAMUEL B. PETTINGILL
"The Gentleman from Indiana"

The Federal government is making its biggest grab for land and power in history. It is asking the United States Supreme Court to declare that the United States and not the 48 states is the owner of all land under navigable waters. Literally, billions of dollars are involved.

As Robert W. Kenny, Attorney General of California, says, "If this attempt succeeds it would be the greatest shift of property right and political authority from the states to the Federal government that has ever taken place in our history."

Forty-six of the 48 states of the union have joined in resisting this grab. The pending suit of the United States vs. the State of California pivots on the rights to petroleum under the Pacific Ocean off the shore of California. The principle, however, applies to all lands under navigable water. It is for this reason that 46 states are fighting the case, although only three of the 46 have any petroleum questions involved. For example, Nevada, with neither petroleum nor sea coast, is fighting this grab.

The whole sea food industry is equally concerned; fish, oysters, clams, shrimps as well as sponges, etc. Under Lake Erie and within Ohio's boundaries there are valuable salt deposits, the raw material of a dozen articles of commerce, including metals. In Pennsylvania valuable coal deposits now being worked are under the bed of the Monongahela River.

In addition to these natural resources there are other billions of dollars of values involved in the suit arising from the construction of docks, wharves, amusement pavilions, etc., owned both by steamship companies and other private owners as well as by states and municipalities. Large parks in some of our most important cities, such as New York, Boston, Chicago, etc., are built on land reclaimed from the sea or the lakes. In Boston it is estimated that $500,000,000 of property which now pays taxes for the support of the city and state government is erected on reclaimed land.

If the Federal government wins its suit, it will put a cloud on the title to all such property because if the Supreme Court holds in favor of the United States the effect of the ruling will be that the states and cities of the country had been squatting on federal territory from the beginning.

The port authorities of such great cities as New York, Philadelphia, New Orleans, San Francisco, etc., have been acting under the authority of the state or the city; as have sewage disposal plants, scenic driveways, lakeshore parks, breaking waters, etc. Bond issues running into the hundreds of millions of dollars are in the hands of the public representing their investment in the beginning.

Trevose Man Dies From A Fracture of The Skull

Merz was found by Harry Gebicke, a park guard, near Comly Road. The deceased leaves a wife and four children.

LIBRARIES DISCUSSED

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 26.—At the dinner meeting held at Doylestown Inn, last evening, the Doylestown PTA was hostess at the Spring Assembly of Bucks Co. Parent-Teacher Association.

Miss Nancy Leavitt, librarian of Chester County Library, discussed operation of county libraries. She informed that the county Library Service provides cultural, informational and recreational reading to people of rural areas through operation of "bookmobiles." They supplement the work of existing library facilities to broaden the area served. Miss Leavitt said that there are about 75,000 people in Bucks County to whom free enlightenment through books is inaccessible without county library service.

Miss Evelyn L. Matthews, acting extension librarian of the State of Pennsylvania, in discussing financial possibilities for library service, disclosed that the state of Pennsylvania offers generous financial aid to counties supporting a library service. She charged that "if we really want county library service, we can and must find ways of raising money for its support." Although there was a general feeling that the service is greatly needed in Bucks County, no definite action was taken.

The speakers were introduced by Dr. Genevieve Bowen, of the Bucks County Office of Education. Mrs. Leavitt continued on Page Three

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

The gloom that surrounded the few, to improve the morale and Foreign Ministers when their conference broke up without agreement in London last October gave way to optimism when they reconvened yesterday in the Luxembourg Palace, Paris. Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia reversed his stand that had resulted in the earlier stalemate and agreed that the entire Big Four would participate in European treaty discussions. Today the Ministers will take up treaties with Germany's satellites, probably starting with Italy.

Mr. Molotov would not agree to the request of Secretary Byrnes to place the Austrian treaty on the agenda as the first step in fulfilling the Allied pledge for early Austrian independence, but the matter will be discussed again today. The proposal of Foreign Minister Bidault to include Germany in the discussions was also put over until today.

The United Nations Security Council debated the Spanish question again for more than three hours. The only concrete result was to spread upon the record the Council's unanimous condemnation of Franco Spain.

General McNarney put into effect a nine-point program, including longer training and an 11 p. m. cur-

REV. MCCONAGHY IS MINISTERIUM SPEAKER

Members of Lower Bucks Co. Ministerium Assemble at Hulmeville

DINNER IS SERVED

HULMEVILLE, Apr. 26.—Clergymen affiliated with Lower Bucks County Methodist Ministerium met in Neshaminy Methodist Church, yesterday, for their April session.

The morning devotions were in charge of the pastor of the hostess church, the Rev. Richard R. Gay, his meditation being upon "The Healing Power of Jesus." The presiding officer was the Rev. F. Russell Hummel, pastor of Langhorne Methodist Church, who presided in the absence of the president, the Rev. Guy Everly, Morrisville.

The principal speaker during the morning was the Rev. Samuel McConaghy, of Willow Grove, who dealt with the challenge of the "Crusade for Christ." Adjoining to the education building of the church, a motion picture film highlighting the address of the Rev. McConaghy was shown, the title being "Toward Unity." Serving as organist during the morning program was Mrs. Richard R. Gay.

Dinner was served to the clergymen and their wives in Epworth Hall, covers being placed for 16. Appreciation for courtesies extended was by the Rev. Mr. Lake, of Yardley, with Mrs. Samuel Everitt responding. Members of the ways and means committee of the Ladies' Aid Society of the local church prepared the dinner. Those serving were: Mrs. Samuel Everitt, chairman; Mrs. Viola Duckley, Mrs. Charles Hunsberger, Mrs. Linford Benner, Sr., and Mrs. Harry Claus.

A short farewell, addressed to the Rev. and Mrs. Alexander B. Davidson, of Doylestown, was expressed by the Rev. Mr. Lak. The Rev. Mr. Davidson is retiring from the active ministry this year. Appreciation for loyalty to his work and to the Ministerium was commented upon by the Rev. Mr. Lake, with the Rev. Davidson replying.

A guest introduced by the Rev. W. E. P. Haas, of Bristol, was the Rev. Mr. Suter, of Ohio.

The May meeting will be held at Yardley; and in June the annual picnic of the Ministerium will take place at "Pennsbury."

VOTING AND THINKING

There are those who like their Congressmen to think. Again, there are those who are proud when their Congressmen don't.

It is a rather odd commentary on current trends to hear boasts of the "regularity" of the thirteen Democratic Congressmen from Pennsylvania who took part in the balloting on proposed amendments to the OPA program. Regularity is right! Throughout the many and complicated phases which came before the House of Representatives, none of the thirteen wavered so much as an inch.

They voted like a bunch of sheep, like a Rockette chorus, like a goose-stepping Prussian guard. Selectivity? Independence? Personal judgment? They showed none. Now, there could be two conclusions about such unanimity of opinion. One is that the problems were so clearly understood, and the fine critical judgment of this sterling group of patriots had been so painstakingly brought to bear on those problems, that all had reached exactly the same verdicts and hence voted alike. The other is that they had their orders and followed them.

As for judgment, it is conspicuous that no other equal group in Congress "held the line" during the varied votes with anything like the same unanimity. The "Southern Democrats" split on some of the issues. So did most of the other Democratic groups. So, for that matter, did the Republicans—both nationally and from Pennsylvania.

The successive votes followed no fixed pattern. Except for Pennsylvania's Democrats, other Congressmen were most conspicuously trying to pick and choose among the suggestions, on the basis of their individual opinions and judgment.

For that matter, there has been no true agreement at the top policy level of the Truman cabinet. Anderson has one opinion, Bowles another, Schwelienbach a third, Krug a fourth, etc. Moreover, what Bowles and Truman say now is entirely different from what they were saying only a few weeks ago.

Should the wind-up of OPA be advanced from June, 1947, to next March? Congress as a whole had a hard time deciding; the final vote was 209 to 189 for the earlier date. But Pennsylvania's Democrats were never in doubt; the word was to vote against the earlier date, and against it they voted.

What about the idea of prohibiting OPA from fixing prices below cost of production plus reasonable profit? Almost anyone can see merit in that idea—everyone except Pennsylvania Democratic Congressmen. The Lower House was for it 259 to 137. But the Keystone Democrats again had their orders—they all voted that OPA can do as it pleases, and pass the bills along to the taxpayers.

Do you think OPA ought to withdraw controls as rapidly as supply equals demand? Again, this seems reasonable; Congress thought so, 228 to 166. But the faithful boys from the Keystone state all had their doubts; once again they voted unanimously to let the OPA do whatever it wishes.

How about subsidies? Everybody agrees they are bad; that they are morally wrong and economically un-

42 Killed, 75 Hurt In Crash of Two Fliers

NAPERVILLE, Ill., Apr. 26.—(INS) —Forty-two persons were known to be dead and at least 75 suffered from injuries today as a result of the wreck of two Burlington Railroad flyers at Naperville, 28 miles west of Chicago, yesterday.

The road's fast Exposition flyer, bound for Oakland, Cal., crashed into the rear of the streamlined Advance flyer, bound for Omaha and Lincoln, Neb., which had stopped at Naperville because of a mechanical difficulty.

The Exposition flyer of nine cars bore down on the Advance flyer at a speed which Engineer W. W. Blaine, of Galesburg, Ill., said was around 85 miles an hour.

Blaine told State's Attorney Lee Daniels of Du Page county that he began applying the brakes when he observed the first block signal warning about a mile and a quarter east of the station.

The engineer's efforts to bring the speeding train to a stop in the relatively short distance were futile and it roared on through a red stop signal and into the halted train at high speed.

ONE MAN'S OPINION . . .

By Walter Kiernan
(Distributed by International News Service)

Colleges are so crowded that 36 ex-soldiers have been forced to enroll at Vassar . . . another indication that the returning veteran faces all kinds of hardships.

Most of the veterans are working for bachelor's degrees but they picked a fine place for it.

Fortunately they're all combat veterans.

One veteran walks 17 miles to school but look what he finds when he gets there . . . 930 girls!

Eleven are married and have been classified by their wives as non-expendable. But they may well ask . . . "Is this what we fought for . . . yum, yum!"

This is the first time that Vassar has gone co-educational but men will not be permitted to carry the daisy chain.

I have it from sources close to nobody that Stalin has been invited to the University of Missouri . . . I think Vassar might get a quicker acceptance.

After all the man is human. Well . . . isn't he?

Gotta go now . .

HOLDING THE BAG

By ruling that only part of a recent raise in pay granted by Detroit milk dealers can be considered in granting price relief to the companies concerned, the National Wage Stabilization Board has demonstrated that the administration's new wage-price policy does put certain limits on wage increases. Unfortunately, that is not the only conclusion to be drawn from this decision.

Certainly the Detroit employers who agreed to pay their workers eighteen cents an hour more to end a strike and get their trucks rolling are not very happy now that they have been informed that only ten cents of the increase can be considered in applying to the OPA for higher prices. They must either lower wages again—in which case they might as well prepare to go out of business—or absorb the difference themselves.
They are left holding the bag because they were squeezed between the devil and the administration's new wage-price policy.

It requires little imagination to foresee that other firms, faced by a similar situation, will be in a quandary. If they refuse to grant labor's demands they may be tied up by strikes. If they grant them, only to be told later that they cannot boost the prices of their products to meet their increased costs,
they may be compelled to negotiate a new agreement or take a loss. Some of them may be forced out of business.

HIDDEN FOOD COSTS

An OPA spokesman who advised the country that food prices today are no higher than they were in 1920 told the truth as far as he went. He spoke about what the consumer can see, without reference to the hidden costs that also must be paid.

Reference to items advertised
by food markets in the newspapers in April, 1920, shows that some of today's prices are slightly higher. Butter, eggs, some cuts of meat, various canned foods,
oleomargarine and other items have not changed materially from one postwar period to another.

Sugar is cheaper now than it was twenty-six years ago, and harder to get. Eggs and butter are about the same, with eggs plentiful and butter limited now to an occasional quarter-pound helping.
Some of today's meat prices are higher and much of the meat is priced at above-ceiling prices
when any is available.

Hidden subsidies on food products for a three-year period will total $4,800,000,000 by the end of June, and $1,750,000,000 more is being sought. This will mean more than $6,500,000,000, plus accrued interest, that American consumers eventually must repay as taxes. It is easy to stand on the front porch and talk about holding the line against excessive prices, while shoveling billions
through the back door for food producers to cart away.

In the end, the American people will have to pay the bill, both in higher prices and in taxes.

This is the Year of the Dog,
according to the Chinese calendar, which seems to have something.

sound. Yet they are simply a way the OPA has found to kid the buyers into thinking the "price line" is being held.
But the Pennsylvania Democrats, without hesitancy and without a single questioning voice, voted to keep on passing part of your current food bills over to your unborn grandchildren.

As for the rest of Congress, the vote on liquidating
the subsidy program during the next few months was 245 for and 150 against. The vote in favor of scrapping meat subsidies next June was 214 to 182.

It is fantastic beyond the realms of possibility to argue that the Pennsylvania Democrats in Congress had thought all these matters through and reached independent but uniform opinions. As a matter of fact, the Congressional Record contains little evidence of these Pennsylvanians taking any large part in the many long arguments over price policies.

The principal contribution of "faithful" Democrats has been to climb to their feet and stalk out of Congress whenever serious discussion of the rights and wrongs of Federal policy was undertaken.

There is one way, and only one way, such a "regular" vote could be obtained. That is through listening, not to one's constituents, but to one's political bosses.

It is no coincidence that the "line" these Congressmen followed in their votes is the one laid down by Sidney Hillman and the CIO, not a program agreed to by the Democratic Party as a whole or designed to meet the needs of the various Pennsylvania communities.

Take Philadelphia: it is a city of 2,000,000, with a great variety of industrial, commercial, social and financial complexities; except for the Roosevelt sweeps which produced the anomaly of all-Democratic representation for Philadelphia in both Houses of Congress, it has been consistently Republican for several generations.

Yet the six Congressmen from Philadelphia are seeking to make a virtue of voting for a program which can only have the effect of further stagnating industrial activity and delaying prosperity in the City of Brotherly Love; and to pride themselves on voting contrary to the majority of political and economic opinions of the city
they "represent."

In many parts of the United States, self-reliant Democrats have been rising from time to time to protest one phase or another of the current White House policy.

But it hasn't happened among office-holding Democrats from Pennsylvania. They are the original "metoo" boys.

these facilities. These investments are all threatened. Royalties, tax revenues, as well as bonds issued against these improvements are at the hazard of this suit.

The reckless character of this grab for power is shown by the fact that both Federal and State courts have, for 100 years, uniformly ruled that these underwater properties belong to the state. Every Secretary of the Interior, until Harold I. Ickes came along, acquiesced in these court decisions. It was 101 years ago that the United States Supreme Court first decided on this question, but now, after the lapse of a century the effort is being made to get the Supreme Court to reverse its repeated decisions.

To meet this attempted conquest of the land of 48 states of the union, a resolution quieting title in the states passed the House of Representatives by an overwhelming vote last October. It is now before the Senate. Some startling disclosures have been made by the Hearst papers showing greedy hands reaching for power and fortune which hope to obtain federal leases.

If the suit succeeds. With 46 out of 48 states uniting to resist this grab it would seem that it could not succeed. But the Supreme Court in recent years has reversed many precedents which had stood for decades, and every American who is opposed to eliminating the word "states" from the "United States" should ask his Senator to oppose this federal conquest.

Russia in Iran is not the only land-grabby government.

Dell Season is To Open In Philadelphia June 24

The opening of Robin Hood Dell, 17th season in Philadelphia is announced as Monday, June 24th, with an all-Tchaikovsky program to be featured. Discussing plans for the 1946 summer series in the nationally-famed sylvan al fresco auditorium in Philadelphia's Fairmount Park, David Hocker, general manager, states that the calendar comprises seven weeks, up to August 8th. Four concerts a week are scheduled and will be given on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Other nights are to be open for postponed concerts or special events. Mondays and Thursdays will spotlight soloists and other attractions. As in former seasons, these will include eminent violinists, pianists, singers and many other stellar artists from the concert world, opera, and the entertainment field. "Pop" concerts again are to be prominent on the Dell roster with conductors and personalities celebrated in the realms of light and popular music.

As artistic director and principal conductor, the brilliant and dynamic Dimitri Mitropoulos will be in charge of musical affairs—his second season in this Dell post and the first under the three-year contract given him at the close of last summer during which he scored a huge success.

The Robin Hood Dell Orchestra once more will number 90 instrumentalists, nearly all of them regular members of the Philadelphia Orchestra, including the majority of that renowned organization's principal solo players.

The opening Tchaikovsky bill will highlight the piano Concerto in B-flat minor and the violin Concerto in D major with that famous young husband and wife team, Eugene List and Carroll Glenn, as the soloists. Among other special programs so far listed are Beethoven's Ninth ("Choral") Symphony; Mendelssohn's oratorio, "Elijah"; ballet evenings, and several festival concerts.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Best War Memorial I Know.

There's an old war memorial in our town that I like to stop and look at now and then.

Back in 1865, folks gathered up all the bitter relics of battle and put them in a pile: cannon, battered rifles, broken swords, and rusted bayonets. Some of them from our side, some captured from the enemy.

They melted them down, and from this litter of war sprung a monument to friendship, tolerance and understanding—a promise that the bitterness and hatred were forgotten.

Since then, there've been all kinds of disagreements in this country, big and little. Prohibition was one—and there was plenty of bloodshed, misery and grief until the problem was resolved.

But from where I sit, it's part of the greatness of America that we remain a united country. We may disagree on individuals—but accepting that difference of opinion, we can live in tolerance and mutual respect.

Sportsmen's Briefs

By JOE ELBERSON

Trapshooting event... the first big bluecock shooting event in almost four years, under the auspices of the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association, will be conducted this Sunday, April 28th, when an open shoot is scheduled over the club traps located just west of Bath Road opposite Silver Lake.

The committee in charge has announced that shells will be on sale for the shoot. The matches will get underway at 1 p. m. All interested trapshooters of this section have been extended a cordial invitation to participate.

Calicoes hitting... Maple Beach has come to the forefront as a local fishing spot during the past week with the appearance of some of the finest calico bass to be landed there in several seasons. Some of the bass according to reports, have tipped the scales at two pounds and better. Minnows appear to be the favorite bait of the anglers who have been fishing there. M. L. "Cooky" Carter has taken several that weighed over a pound and a half.

Worthy of praise... the fine job done by several members of the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association in planting a number of fine young maple trees around Silver Lake several days ago is to be highly commended. Over 75 trees were planted and every one that lives and grows to maturity will add beauty to the lake.

Fished out... according to the reports of seven different local parties who have fished Cook's Creek during the past five days the stream has just about given up every trout that has been stocked there since last fall. Water conditions and weather conditions have been near perfect for the bait and fly fishermen and the same result has been experienced for the last week... no fish. I can readily believe this because if the hundreds of other anglers on the stream the first day landed half as many as the party with which I fished then there can be very few left.

Bullets versus cartridges... a bullet by any other name is still a bullet. Yet, there are as many people who call a bullet a cartridge as there are those who call a cartridge a bullet.

So says Major Jack Hession, internationally-known rifle shot and shooting coach of the Winchester Repeating Arms Co.

Most common boners in the vocabulary of many people when they speak of sporting arms and ammunition are the following words, according to Hession:

Bullet, when they mean cartridge which is a complete round of ammunition.

Cartridge, when they mean only the projectile.

Gun, when they mean rifle, which is a rifled arm.

Rifle, when they mean shotgun, which has a smooth bore.

Pistol, when they mean revolver which has a revolving cylindrical magazine.

Revolver, when they mean pistol, an arm without a revolving cylindrical magazine.
